JOB BEGGING FOR A MAN.

PITTMAN and Newlands are having a hard time peddling the land office receivership. Nobody wants the job as a gift. The overworked henchmen of the two senators turn up their ruby noses with supercilious scorn at the thought of offering such insignificant reward for campaign work. It is bad enough to work for a Democratic administration, but when one is asked to work for a beggarly stipend it is adding insult to injury. Everybody loves a fat job, but the lean ones go begging and the business of a great state is tied up because the government is so arranged that it has left the task of filling an undesirable office to two senators who cannot find a cheap man for the place. Unfortunately for the superannuated citizens of Carson City the position does not fall to their lot, as it has been assigned to the Democrats of the southern mining camps who are accustomed to living on something better than a dollar a day.

The situation is peculiarly distressing owing to the fact that the tender of the poorest job in the gift of the senators was made to one of the leaders of the party who could not be brought to see why he should sacrifice his personal interests to accept a position that would not furnish a moderate supply of mint during the torrid season. Under the Republican administration the job of receiver of the Carson City land office was worth anywhere from $3000 to $3500 a year, but then Pittman, in eager desire to multiply the fleshpots at his disposal, prevailed on the powers at Washington to establish another land office. In other words, where one set of officers could do the work the Tonopah senator thought it would be a display of statesmanship to have two do the work of one. However, he overleaped the mark. In building a well-oiled political machine in Elko county he crippled the mechanism of the motor at the state capital and is left with a nice bunch of Indians on his hands. These gentlemen are whetting their scalping knives and will be heard from.

That the light may shine for the benefit of those who may aspire to a government sinecure at any old price, it may be stated that the office of receiver of the Carson land office is worth the magnificent sum of $500 a year. If sudden activity should arise in the mining country tributary to Carson it is possible, but not probable, that the receiver, by diligent application, might succeed in drawing a warrant for $1000 and, if there should be a real inflated boom of the 1906 type that occurs once in a generation, then the incumbent might pull down $1800. That is the limit. He cannot go higher no matter what may take place, and most of the former candidates are prone to think they are inside the limit when they guess the salary at about what they are now paying for cigar money.

Southern Nevada is willing to pass the plum to the hungry and unemployed of Reno.

A SISSY IN POLITICS.

JOHN EDWARDS BRAY, by mistake of the people superintendent of public instruction, is proving himself as sissy as his name. He takes issue with the Board of Regents of the University of Nevada on the question of suffrage and is conceited enough to set himself up as a paragon and oracle whose utterances should be accepted as the last word in matters of education. Fortunately the people of Nevada are not disposed to take Bray seriously. He is too well known for an arrogant assumption of all the attributes of Providence and his wanton moments are filled with thoughts of infallibility.

As a pedagogical nonentity he is an unqualified success. He only opens his mouth to put his foot in it. This latest exhibition of mental aberration is an official announcement that the regents of the university had no right to curtail the privilege of the University Suffrage League, that public school children have a perfect right to write essays on suffrage and that all trustees who deny suffragettes a place in public schools are overriding their powers.

As Mr. Bray is a candidate for re-election, tolerant kindness suggests that he is bidding for the Socialist vote by opening the sluice gates and deluging the schools with all absurd fads and fancies, and incidentally picking up a few votes for himself. If suffrage is not politics, then what is it?

Mr. Bray is supposed to be on speaking terms with the English

FITZ

Red McGhee says:

They're all against you, ain't they, Fitz? All out to put you on the friz, these fatiana ezars. You can't come back no more, they say—too old, they rule, you've had your day, can't class with newer stars. Well, Bob, these geezers may be right. That old-time wallop in your right might come a wee bit slow. This Gunboat's got an awful nut. They say he's Ty Cobb on the hit—and some whal, too, yknow.

Red McGhee

You're fifty-one, Bob, ain't you?—Yes? That is a little old, I guess, for bustin' round a ring. You maulled this K. O. Sweeney guy? Sure, Bob, I know that ain't no lie, but that's like drinkin' sling. Old Jeff, no doubt, could do that, too, but when he met "The Smoke" he blew. You remember how that was? This comeback bee gets buzzin' strong, but take my tip, Bob, you'll go wrong unless you let it buzz.

You've grabbed your great big chunk of fame; you've had your fliz at the game. You went strong while you went. Don't drag your record out no more—you can't tack nothing on your score—it's two-bits to a cent. Let that old name Fitzsumons rest back there among the fight game's best—the boys that had the punch. Don't be a fall-down, comeback slob. You'd better leave it "Fightin' Bob" for good, Fitz. That's my hunch.

language and has sometimes been known to pose as an authority on philology, and is respectfully referred to the everyday unabridged dictionary of one Noah Webster, where he will find the following lucid paragraph:

SUFFRAGE—The privilege or right of voting in political affairs; specifically under a representative form of government; the right of having a voice in the election of public officers and in the adoption or rejection of fundamental laws.

At this Mr. Bray is of the opinion that no set of trustees had the right to limit discussion in the public schools it is strange that he failed to enlighten the school trustees of Tonopah on their great mistake in prohibiting suffrage in the schools within their province. Why was he recreant to this trust? Why did he not have the manhood to assert himself on a matter which he considers of such vital importance? If he was right he is clothed with sufficient authority to insist on a retraction of the Tonopah order, and if he does not insist it is because he knows he is wrong and that he cannot pull the wool over the eyes of men he has been taught to respect for their painstaking efforts to maintain the lofty standards of the public schools. He is very assertive in gatherings of women where there is no voice to controvert his statements, but with men he prefers to remain in hiding rather than come out in a manly way and meet argument with argument and facts with facts.

This is not the first time Mr. Bray has permitted the use of public schools for the purpose of proselytizing. At the last institute held in Goldfield a woman speaker who was not entitled to the platform held the floor with a long and wearisome discourse on suffrage and then submitted a resolution calling for the endorsement of suffrage by the assembled teachers. To the credit of Tonopah let it be said that the only two teachers who had the independence to stick up for principle were girls from Tonopah who refused to be browbeaten into endorsing ideas that had no connection with the public schools or matters of education. The thoughts expressed by Bray in his statement reflecting on the regents of the State University would have shamed a school boy, and the educational standard of Nevada will not be raised by the production.

Bray is paid for attending to the duties of superintendent of public instruction and his mental caliber unfits him for the assumption of greater duties. If he will do his best to earn the salary he is paid he will earn the respect of the public as well meaning, if inefficient, but he should know once for all that he is not drawing a salary to engage in politics.

Weak Lungs Often Lead to Serious Illness

If you have weak lungs and your system is run down, you are more susceptible to serious lung trouble. By the use of Eckman's Alternative many have been restored to health. Read of this case:

221 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J.
"Gentlemen—In the fall of 1905 I contracted a very severe cold which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise sputum, and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alternative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week of October. I began to improve and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 15 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now seven years since my recovery has been effected, and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly."
